Message Believed To Be from Pair Missing for Week.

BEARS NAME "DON"

Tidings Received by Coast Guard at Seattle.

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 16—The coast guard received a report today that Cecil A. Allan and Don Moyle, California aviators missing more than a week after a transpacific flight attempt from Japan to Seattle, are safe in the Aleutian islands.

The message said the fliers had been found safe on an uninhabited island. No details were given in early reports. Several vessels of the coast guard have been combing the Aleutians westward of their base at Dutch Harbor.

The coast guard station here received a message from the naval radio on St. Paul island in Bering sea addressed to Miss Frances Bresson, fiancee of Moyle at Riverside, Calif.

Allen and Moyle left Samushiro beach, northern Japan, on Monday of last week on an attempted nonstop flight to Seattle. They were sighted about one hour after they left Tokyo but were unseen after that. They were due in Seattle a week ago today.

Captain H. D. Hinckley, commandant of the northern division of the coast guard, said the message was sent from the steamer Burlat through the St. Paul station which relayed it to Cordova, Alaska, and thence here.

The message was signed "Don," he said, and told Miss Bresson the fliers were safe on the island and would be in Seattle, Sept. 22. This was believed to indicate that the fliers were on the Burlat.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—A telegram signed "Don" and believed to have been from Don Moyle, one of the two trans-pacific fliers who have been missing more than a week, was relayed to the navy department today from the steamer Burlat.

Along with the telegram, which was addressed to Frances Bresson, Arlington, Calif., came a report from Rear Admiral E. H. Campbell of the Seattle naval district that two men believed to be Moyle and his companion, Cecil A. Allen, had landed on an uninhabited island presumably in the Aleutian chain.

The report came through the St. Paul island navy radio station and was received from the steamer Burlat.

The message to Francis Bresson read:

"Landed uninhabited island Everything all right. Will be in Seattle, Sept. 22. Love. Don."

EPIDEMIC OF FEVER GAINS IN CLEVELAND

Eight New Cases of Typhoid In State Hospital; Six Fatalities.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 16 — With eight new cases of typhoid fever found among the 2,350 inmates of the state hospital, Cleveland health authorities today began a round-up of all patients discharged from the institution since the start of the epidemic Aug. 15 to prevent a general epidemic in the city.

Already guards have been placed about the institution and city bathing beaches closed.

Six deaths have occurred among inmates, and Dr. Guy H. Williams, superintendent, reported that four other cases were considered hopeless. More than 130 have been stricken.

C. OF C. WILL HOLD OPEN MEET FRIDAY

Public Invited to Dinner Session Marking Membership Drive Start.

Plans for a dinner meeting Friday night to which all interested Marion residents are invited were perfected at noon today by the board of directors of the chamber of commerce in a meeting at the Marion club.

Chester Leasure of Washington, D. C., of the United States chamber of commerce, will be the principal speaker at Friday night's meeting, which will begin at 6:30 p. m. with a dinner.

This meeting will be the first public gathering sponsored by the chamber this fall, and will be the first step in an intensive drive for new members.

Membership cards are now being circulated by W. B. Jones, chairman of the membership committee, and captains of the several teams are urged to call in their cards with reports as soon as possible.

WHITE TALKS WITH GUTHERY

Governor Withholds Comment on Dismissal of State Fair Head.

BEER TO GET HEARING

Ousted Official Scheduled for Conference Late Today.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 16—Governor George White made no comment today after a prolonged conference with I. S. Guthery, state director of agriculture, who yesterday missed Charles M. Beer as manager of the state fair.

The governor said he would make no statement until after a conference with Beer, which is expected to take place late today. The governor, however, did quote Guthery as saying he dismissed Beer because of "incompatible temperament."

Upon leaving the governor's office Guthery would neither confirm nor deny that he had resigned or had been asked to resign.

For several hours after the news of Beer's dismissal became known, the governor and his secretary, Carl W. Smith of Kenton, attempted to locate Guthery by telephone to ask why Beer had been discharged without authorization by the governor.

Beer told newspapermen he received a notice of his discharge from Guthery, "which cited no reasons for the action."

Almost simultaneously with the discharge of the fair manager, Guthery issued a statement saying he had discovered, "a brazen plot to defraud the state fair." He said he had learned of an attempt "to juggle state fair tickets."

Action by the Governor was to mark the second time he has intervened in difficulties between Guthery and Beer. During the state fair two weeks ago, when Guthery and Beer quarreled over the management of the fair, the governor came home from a lake cruise in advance to settle the dispute.

INVESTIGATE DEATH OF URBANA WOMAN

Police Seek Man Seen with Mrs. Lulu Willet Before Finding of Body.

By The Associated Press

URBANA, O., Sept. 16—Search was under way today for a man reported to have been the companion of Mrs. Lulu Willet, 34, a short time before her body was found huddled on the floor of an automobile near here late yesterday.

A coroner's verdict was withheld pending outcome of the search, although authorities expressed the belief the woman died from natural causes. Slight bruises on the left leg and arm were the only marks on the body.

The woman was found by Sheriff E. A. Biggert of Champaign county after he learned the automobile had been standing at the spot all day. Mrs. Willet recently was separated from her husband.

WRECKAGE OF CRAMER PLANE FOUND AT SEA

British Trawler Captain Finds Seaplane Near Scene of Crash.

IDENTIFIED BY NUMBERS

Craft, Two Aboard, Lost in Flight from Detroit to Copenhagen.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 16—The British trawler Lord Trent wirelessed the Associated Press today that it had picked up the wreckage of a seaplane in the approximate vicinity where Parker Cramer, American flier, was believed to have been lost on a flight from Detroit to Copenhagen. The message, signed by Captain Arnason, said the wreckage looked as if it had been in the water a long time.

The Lord Trent was bound for the White Sea.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—K. D. Vosler, factory manager for the Edo Aircraft corporation, today definitely identified wreckage found in the North Sea by the British trawler Lord Trent as that of the plane of Parker Cramer, American flier lost on a flight from Detroit to Copenhagen.

"If those are the numbers it is Cramer's plane," he said, after checking company records.

Identifying Marks

The identifying marks given in a wireless message from the Lord Trent to the Associated Press at London, were "Model 3830, date 3-19-30, manufacturing number 07006, patent 1726439, Edo Aircraft Corporation, College Point, N. Y."

Vosler said the only thing that did not check absolutely was the manufacturing number which should have been Q7006, instead of 07006. He said he was sure the first zero was a mistake perhaps made in transmission.

Cramer and his radio operator, Oliver Paquette, disappeared into a heavy storm Aug. 9 after leaving the Shetland islands for Copenhagen. Cramer, who had hoped to blaze an airmail route over the Arctic, was a veteran pilot.

Taking off almost unnoticed from Detroit, and certainly unheralded, Cramer reached Angmagsalik, Greenland, without attracting attention. His successful crossing of the ice cap, the most hazardous jump of his trip, was believed to have placed behind him perils of the flight.

Were Flying to Bergen

Flying in easy stages from Angmagsalik to Reykjavik, Iceland, and from there to the Faroe islands, Cramer and Paquette were ready to fly to Bergen. They were forced down on the sea once, but returned and took off again, this time never returning to human sight.

YOUTH KILLED WHEN TRUCK IS WRECKED

Tire Blows Out Near Radnor; Motorist Finds Body in Ditch.

Special to The Star

RADNOR, Sept. 16—Romeo R. Hayes, 19, truck driver of Delaware, was almost instantly killed yesterday at 2:30 p. m. when a rear tire blew out about one mile south of here, wrecking the truck. He was dead when taken to Jane Case hospital at Delaware by W. R. Perry of Radnor who found the truck in the ditch. His neck was broken.

Hayes, an employe of the Delaware Electric shop was taking a truckload of supplies to Radnor for the addition to the school building there.

Hayes had lived with his sister, Mrs. Al Lyons of Delaware for about a year since coming there from his home at Dunbar, a suburb of Charleston, W. Va. He was a 1930 honor graduate of the high school there and was preparing to enter West Virginia Wesleyan where he held a scholarship.

The body will be sent to Dunbar for burial. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Hayes of Dunbar, who survive with seven brothers and two sisters.

SIX DIE IN PLANE CRASH

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 16—Four passengers and the two pilots of the Belgrade-Bucharest passenger plane were killed last night when the plane crashed near Turnu Severin, Rumania.

FOUND SLAIN

Finding the body of Benjamin F. Collings, former Stamford, Conn., engineer, today, started the latest important chain of developments following his mysterious disappearance several days ago. His hands and feet were bound and other circumstances provided evidence of murder.

COMMITTEES CHECK BUDGET

Means of Reducing Money Requests Sought by Tax Groups.

LOWER TAXES IS GOAL

Members Fail To Make Substatial Cuts at Morning Session.

County commissioners and a committee representing four city and county tax reduction groups this morning began the tedious task of going through the 1932 budget with a fine tooth comb, and comparing figures asked for next year with the actual expenditures in corresponding funds in 1930.

At noon, the work had barely started, and had not reached the administration funds of the various county offices.

Expenditures of 1930 were discussed in detail as the committee searched for possible means of reducing the 1932 budget. The committee at noon had not discovered any item which they believed it will be possible to reduce substantially. Recommendations for minor economies were made verbally as the meeting progressed.

To Study Welfare Situation

Considerable discussion ensued when mothers' pensions and blind relief funds came under the eyes of the committee. For 1932, $8,000 mothers' pensions and $6,000 blind relief is asked. Officials explained that these pensions and blind relief allowances often were the principal means of support of families who otherwise would become inmates of the county home and other institutions.

J. Wilbur Jacoby, head of the chamber of commerce tax committee, said the committee plan to make an exhaustive study of the welfare situation and to call in all city and county officials in touch with the welfare problem to eliminate duplication of relief work during the coming winter.

The county commissioners' fund, the county home fund, general office expenses, school examiners' fund and police and municipal court fund passed without lengthy arguments. It was suggested that officials use telephones as little as possible for long distance calls, and

PRODUCE TO PAY COLLEGE TUITION

By United Press

BELOIT, Wis., Sept. 16—Home-cured hams, potatoes, eggs, chickens, fruit and vegetables are now accepted as tuition by Beloit college.

Action of the trustees in voting to accept farm produce in lieu of money for tuition was expected to augment the already large freshman class. Farmers of the countryside had protested that they had no money to send their sons and daughters to school this year. The college trustees conferred and decided they could use the produce in the college dining room.

SURPRISE PROMISED AT MASS MEETING

Unique Civic Movement Plan Will Be Revealed at Park Tonight.

The solution of Marion's welfare problem, to be outlined to the public tonight in a meeting at Garfield park to which all Marionites are invited, will be a complete surprise, and will represent something new and unique in civic movements, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer said today.

The plan devised for the city's betterment has been kept a close secret, many of those intimately connected with the movement not knowing the full details.

Announcement of a definite plan of procedure tonight will be the climax of the boost Marion movement which started early this year, including a number of group meetings at White Oaks farm.

Band To Play

The Grotto band of 30 pieces will furnish music for the occasion. Boy Scouts have volunteered their services as ushers.

Everyone interested in the future welfare of the city is invited to attend the meeting, starting at 7:30 p. m. Each citizen will learn the part he or she is to play in the new movement when plans are announced tonight, Dr. Sawyer said.

In telephone interviews today, members of the original committee of 32 prominent citizens who early this year named Dr. Sawyer chairman and authorized him to proceed in a movement in the interests of Marion's welfare, urged Marionites to attend the meeting, stressing the importance of citizens attending the meeting and cooperating in planning for the future.

Quotations from their interviews follow:

"Most Important in Years"

Blake Denithorn: "Tonight's meeting is the most important held in Marion in 20 years from the standpoint of the city's welfare, present and future. What will be done to better Marion in the future will be largely determined by the attendance and spirit shown tonight."

Roy Gureenu: "Every Marionite

Divorcee Charges Breach of Promise Against Choir Singer.

ASKS 200,000 DOLLARS

Temple Leader and Husband Refuse To Let Action Becloud Honeymoon.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 16—A $200,000 breach of promise suit hovered in the background of Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton's combination honeymoon trip and revival campaign today, but she vowed she would not permit it to become her happiness.

The honeymoon trip, with David L. Hutton, her jovial choir singer, as her third husband, got under way last night a few hours after Hutton had been served with the papers of a suit by Mrs. Myrtle H. St. Pierre, 24-year-old divorcee and nurse, charging breach of promise.

The papers were served as Hutton was receiving a manicure at Angelus temple here. He came downstairs, arm in arm with his bride to meet the process server.

"Take it dear," the evangelist said, when Hutton appeared hesitant about receiving the notice, "one can't dodge those things."

The evangelist took the news of the suit philosophically.

"Our pasts are our own," she said, "and we don't intend to disturb them. We'll face the future instead. It seems to be the fashion now that when a man gets married his silent admirers must bring suit against him for breach of promise."

Mrs. St. Pierre charged in her suit that last January Hutton made love to her, promised to marry her soon and betrayed her. Her attorney last night announced he would accept a settlement out of court. It brought no response from Hutton.

Divorce Suit Filed

While Hutton was becoming engaged in a legal tangle, Guy Edward Hudson, who recently married Mrs. Minnie (Mia) Kennedy, mother of the evangelist, filed suit yesterday for divorce from Mrs. L. Margaret Hudson in Las Vegas, Nevada, to whom he was already married when he and Mia Kennedy were wed.

SHAKEUP REPORTED DUE IN IRISH NINE FOR FINAL 1931 PLAY

Ninth Game of Series Today Equals Record Set by Teams in 1927.

Barring interference from rain or wet grounds the 1931 Little World series for the recreation baseball championship of Marion will come to a close today at Lincoln park Two teams, the St. Mary's and First Presbyterian church nines, are still in the running for the title. One of the two will be champion after today, if the game is played—that is, unless there is another tie, the third of the series.

There is certain to be at least one record tied during this series and should today's battle result in a tie score a record will be broken.

This is for the total number of games played in the series. On only one other occasion has it been necessary to play nine games to decide the championship. Nine games were played in 1927 and today will be the ninth start of the 1931 series. There have been two tie games played and the Presbyterians have figured in both. One was between the Presbyterians and C. D & M., going ten innings to a 1-1 deadlock, the other was a 7-7 tie between the Irish and Presbyterians.

A shakeup is reported pending in the lineup of the Irish team for the final game of the series. Failure of a couple of players to hit with any degree of consistency may result in their going to bench in favor of some heavier stickers. Just how the changes will affect the lineup is not certain as the manager could not be reached today for a confirmation of the report.

The Presbyterians are expected to stand pat on their lineup. In the last couple of games the batters have been finding their batting eyes and have been hammering out base hits in rapid-fire order. Don Shoemaker will be on the mound for the Presbies. He will probably be opposed by Gunder on the hill for the Irish. The game will start promptly at 6 p. m.

M'GRAW UNCOVERS SECOND TRUMP

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—Age isn't dimming the fiery eye of John McGraw, manager of the Giants, to such an extent that he still can't see the potentialities of a young ball player.

The latest proof is supplied by young Jim Mooney, southpaw hurler whom McGraw personally pulled out of the South Atlantic league, laying out $7,000 for his possible talents.

Mooney in his big league debut a short time ago against the Pirates walked off with a 2-1 victory. His margin of victory was furnished by a homer from the bat of Mel Ott, a young man in whom McGraw once saw slugging possibilities.

Hurled for Bridgeport

Until his premiere Mooney had been pitching for Bridgeport in the Eastern league, where he won 16 games.

McGraw has received some criticism for sending Mooney to the minor league club.

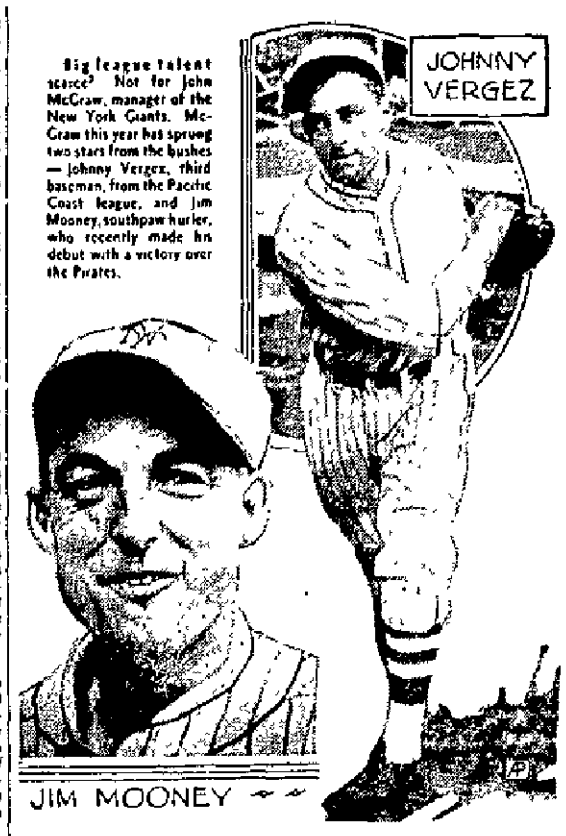
However, the failure of several of the Giants' young hurlers was unexpected, and Mooney was ill during spring training which gave him little opportunity to show anything.

Johnny Vergez, third baseman, is another young star McGraw has sprung this year. Vergez, purchased from the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league team, has been called the salvation of the 1931 Giants.

Injury Spoils Mooney

From the opening gun he has played a bang up game at third base, and his presence made it possible to shift the slugging Freddy Lindstrom to the outfield to fill in a gap there. This bit of strategy was spoiled, however, when Lindstrom a couple of months ago was forced out of the game with a broken bone in his foot.

Vergez most of the season has been batting better than .300 though a short time ago he slid down into the .290's. He has driven in around 70 runs, and he has held up his end in a brilliant fielding infield which includes a Terry and a Jackson.



Big league talent scarce? Not for John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants. McGraw this year has sprung two stars from the bushes — Johnny Vergez, third baseman, from the Pacific Coast league, and Jim Mooney, southpaw hurler, who recently made his debut with a victory over the Pirates.

Record Number on Hand at First Big Ten Grid Drills

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept 16—A Big Ten football hasn't been affected at all by the prolific discussions of the "evils" of over-emphasis, which were chorused wide and far toward the closing days of the 1930 campaign.

Probably the largest army of pigskin chasers in the history of the conference, 648 candidates or an average of almost six full teams for each camp, heard the call at yesterday's opening drills. And the coaches, who feared a depression in interest, beamed with optimism.

The largest turn-outs were registered at Purdue and Minnesota where Coaches Noble Kizer of the Boilermakers and Fritz Crisler of the Gophers counted 80 candidates each. Ohio State and 76 with Illinois close behind with 75 huskies who tickled the usually pessimistic Bob Zuppke. Indiana had 70, Wisconsin 50, Northwestern 57, Michigan 54, Iowa 49 and Chicago 47. The turn-out at Chicago, where the venerable Amos Alonzo Stagg is accustomed to starting out with 30 candidates, was one of the most surprising of them all.

Hustled Through Drills

No time clocks were needed anywhere in the conference for the opening drills. In every camp, the candidates were hustled through brisk workout in fundamentals of the game, and many of the coaches came up with cagey announcements that scrimmage was only a few days away.

Probably the happiest coach of them all was the 70-year-old Stagg. His chief worry involves reserves for the first string and he expects to find some in the larger squad.

Purdue, regarded as one of the big title threats again this year, had a squad with a veteran complexion, 21 major lettermen were back and as a starter, Coach Kizer gave them a signal drill.

Hanley Optimistic

Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern, optimistic over the Wildcat chances, immediately started a search for a pass-receiving end, an accurate passer which he seems to have in "Pug" Rentner, a kicker and a dependable field general.

Good and bad news greeted Coach Crisler at Minnesota. George Nickels, star tackle was declared eligible to make him smile but he frowned when Frank Larson, end and fullback, and Howard Nichols, tackle advised they would not return to school.

Coach Harry Kipke sent his Michigan squad through a three-hour drill and announced a probable scrimmage for Monday. Everything looked bright in the Wolverine camp.

A drizzling rain fell at Wisconsin and Iowa, but the teams refused to lose time, getting good signal drills. At Ohio State, Coach Sam Williamson was looking for another Wesley Fesler. Prospects were high for a powerful team.

Rolling their second time of the season last night on the Recreation alleys the All-Star bowling league pin smashers failed to turn in the high scores usual in this league. Several good scores were rolled but few were up to the usual standard. C. Williams led the high scorers for the second consecutive week with a mark of 634 for the three games. Cookston finished in second place with 598 pins to his credit. Williams rolls for the Smart & Waddell team while Cookston does his work under the banner of the Jim Dugan five.

Connie Mack, the 68-year-old sage of Shibe park, can spend the next two weeks figuring out what pitcher the St. Louis Cardinals will not expect him to start against them in the first game of the world series.

Any other worry the Philadelphia pilot might have harbored was removed yesterday when his Athletics sewed up their third straight American league flag by overwhelming the Cleveland Indians, 14 to 3, while the Washington Senators were bowing to St. Louis, 5 to 4.

If they wished, the world champions could lose their remaining 12 games, and providing Washington won its last 13, still finish with a full game lead over the Senators.

Mack Is Pleased

When informed his A's had won for him his ninth American league flag, Connie Mack admitted he was pleased, but failed to enthuse.

By coincidence, the Cardinals chose the same day to take a straight hold on the National league hunting. Defeating Philadelphia, 5 to 0, while their closest rivals, the New York Giants, were held idle by rain, Gabby Street's warriors assured themselves at least a tie for the top. If they lose their remaining games and the Giants capture all theirs, each will finish with 95 victories and 59 defeats.

The veteran Ed Rommel rather than one of Mack's high powered pitchers, had the honor of clinching the argument.

Washington, leading 4 to 1 through the seventh inning threatened to carry the fight over another day, but the Browns rallied to tie the count in the eighth and then nicked Lloyd Brown for the winning run in the ninth. There went Walt Johnson's hopes of an American league flag.

The New York Yankees, still scrapping for second place, made it four straight from the Detroit Tigers, 9 to 2. The big feature of the Yank victory was Lou Gehrig's forty-fourth homerun in the fifth inning with two on base.

Tom Oliver's single in the tenth with two out and the bases loaded drove Danny MacFayden in with the run that gave the Boston Red Sox a 3 to 2 win over Chicago their second in a row.

Jim Lindsey, whose specialty is relief work, branched out to go a full nine-inning trick as the Cards scored their important shutout.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, behind superb pitching by Heine Meine and Larry French, tumbled the Brooklyn Robins twice, 5 to 2, and 2 to 1. Dazzy Vance deserved a better fate in the nightcap, when errors by Herman and Wright gave the Pirates both their runs.

LINDEN GOPHERS TO PLAY E. LIVERPOOL

All-Marion Teams To Play on Same Program; Promoters Donate Profits.

Marion's undernourished kiddies will receive the proceeds of the triple recreation baseball program at Lincoln park next Sunday. The promoters of the central Ohio recreation baseball tournament, backers of the Sunday program, have voluntarily offered the entire net proceeds of the day to the Milk Fund committee of the Marion Red Cross organization. The proceeds will be used entirely for the purchase of milk for needy children of the city. Floyd (Fido) Robbins, Marion Hinkle, Harry (Hosey) Williams and A. L. Hinkle are promoters of the attraction. With the exception of the percentage guarantees for East Liverpool and Columbus, the two visiting teams, the entire proceeds will go to the milk fund.

Three Games Sunday

There will be three games Sunday. The Linden Gophers, of Columbus, winners here last week of the central Ohio recreation baseball tournament and East Liverpool, Tri-state softball champions, will clash in two of the games. If arrangements now pending are completed, the first and second all-city softball teams of Marion will meet in the other fray. The all-city team members will be announced in The Star on Friday of this week. In case it is impossible to get the first and second all-city teams lined up, two all star Marion teams will clash.

The first game played Sunday will start at 1:30 p. m. between East Liverpool and the Gophers under the East Liverpool rules. The second will be between the first and second all-city teams of Marion and will start at 2:30 p. m. The third to be played under Marion rules, will be between East Liverpool and the Gophers at 3:30 p. m.

East Liverpool rules differ considerably from those in Marion. Base stealing is allowed but no bunting. Both are allowed in Marion. A 12-inch outseam ball is used by East Liverpool, while the inseam sphere is official here. The distance between bases are the same in both cities, 60 feet.

Officials of the games Sunday are donating their services in order that all possible money will be turned over to the milk fund. The promoters will not collect any of the profits but will handle the games under the same arrangements which have marked the Central Ohio tournament which closed at Lincoln park last Sunday.

RIGGS HITS HARD

Columbus Outfielder Socks Sixth Homer in Six Days.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept 16—Lew Riggs, Columbus outfielder, has caught the home run fever.

In six consecutive days, he has hit for the circuit and most of his blows have been of the timely variety to help the Red Birds in their fight for a first division berth. He hit his sixth yesterday but Louisville took the game in a romp, 15 to 5.

Milwaukee polished off Minneapolis, 3 to 2, in the fast time of one hour and 37 minutes in the only other game played yesterday. Rube Benton bested Earl Caldwell, five hits to eight, in a pitching duel but the Brewers played the better baseball to win.

The other games were called off because of rain.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press

Dib Williams, Athletics—Made five straight hits to lead in 18-3 victory over Cleveland that clinched American league pennant for Philadelphia.

Jim Lindsey, Cardinals—Shut out Phillies, with five hits for Cards' fifth straight victory.

Heinie Meine and Larry French, Pirates—Downed Robins in both games of doubleheader, 5-2, and 2-1, allowing 13 hits in two games.

Lou Gehrig, Yankees—Hit forty-fourth home run and a single to drive in four runs against Detroit.

RICH HAS DIFFICULT TASK CONSTRUCTING WINNER FOR DENISON

Shortage of Material, Tough Schedule To Hamper Baptist Grid Coach.

By United Press

GRANVILLE, O., Sept. 16—George Rich, the former University of Michigan football player who was chosen to direct Denison university's team, has a greater task than any young coach in Ohio.

His job consists of building a football team from a small squad of none-to-good players and playing a hard schedule with the best collegiate teams in the state.

Rich was chosen as coach because the Athletic management felt that he could put together a Buckeye conference winner for Denison if that were possible. He succeeded Edson "Babe" Rupp, who resigned last year. Rupp's team did not win a Buckeye game last season.

Coach Rich told his friends a few days ago he didn't expect his players to win a game this year. Then he started in with his characteristic vigor to prove he was wrong.

Eleven veterans will bolster Denison's team this year. In addition there are a few good sophomore prospects who may make the path a little smoother.

Among the experienced players are Ray Scott and Early Rupe of Dayton, "Tiny" Miller, 200-pound tackle, John Shepard and Bob Edwards, guards; Al Anderson of Newark, center; Howard Walker of Johnston, backfield; Lauri Wart of Ashtabula, backfield; Tom Gabel of St. Clairville, backfield, and Bob Adams of Dayton, an end.

The necessity of introducing a new system to these men probably will reduce the effectiveness of the team.

Besides its Buckeye opponents, Denison will play Hillsdale, Mich. college, Oberlin and Wooster.

To a young lady the one who loves a roadster regardless of weather—to the one who runs "him" down to work in the morning; likes to "jump in" and be "off" on those hurried shopping trips, get the "kids" to school on time—to all you who love speed, sport and life's freedom—week-ends or cool autumn evenings—you can have a car—just such a car—and without paying new car prices.

On this page tonight, under Used Cars, your car is listed for a small down payment.

MARKET QUIETS AS DAY WANES

Mid-Week Business Provides Little Encouragement on Wall Street.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—The stock market oscillated confusedly in quiet trading today.

The market was supported on declines, but ran into fresh selling on advances. The list pushed up with some vigor after midday but again ran into selling. It opened with a moderate sag, rallied during the morning, and sold off again before noon.

Westinghouse Electric turned a loss of more than a point into a gain of more than 3, as reduction of the quarterly dividend from one dollar to 62½ cents was less drastic than expected in some quarters. U. S Steel fluctuated narrowly. Issues pushing up 1 to 3 points during the afternoon rally included American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, General Electric, New York Central, American Can, Woolworth, American Tobacco B, National Biscuit, Dupont and others. Isolated weak spots appeared in the rails. Kansas City Southern dropped 5 points on the dividend omission. Louisville and Nashville lost 4.

The mid-week business statistics provided a little encouragement, particularly the steel trade reviews, steel ingot output is variously estimated this week at between 30 and 32 per cent of capacity, as against 28 to 30 a week previously. The Youngstown area is said still to be holding its output at 41 per cent, maintaining the rate of the beginning of the week.

Suspension of A Lincoln Eglinton & Co., a local curb house was not of moment to the financial markets generally.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Homegrown peaches are largely supplanting the shipped in varieties in meeting the local demand, with prices ranging from 50 to 75 cents a bushel. The situation is only temporary, however, dealers say, as large supplies of the northern Ohio fruit are expected.

Other fruit prices were fairly steady with supplies of nearly all kinds large enough to meet the demand. Plums for canning are holding at from 50 cents to $1 a bushel. Pears are not so plentiful and are selling at from $1 to $1.25 a bushel. Despite the fact that growers are offering homegrown grapes at two and three cents a pound, dealers are carrying but few. The supply is said to be large.

Potatoes were holding today at from 80 to 90 cnets a bushel. The supply is large and the quality good. Sweetcorn is becoming scarce, although growers continue to offer 12 and 14 dozen for $1. Pickles for canning were selling at from 25 to 30 cents a hundred with the supply only fairly large. Other seasonable vegetables were plentiful with prices showing but little change from yesterday.

GRAIN PRICES SCORE GAINS

Corn and Wheat Both Record General Upturns on Chicago Market.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 16—Material upturns in grain prices took place early today, helped by Liverpool reports that Russian offerings of spring wheat had been mostly withdrawn. Enlarged estimates of wheat requirements for China's flooded regions were also current. Opening unchanged to ¼ cent higher, wheat afterward rose all around. Corn started ⅛ off to ¼ up and subsequently scored general gains.

Announcement of a good sized volume of export business overnight in the United States hard winter wheat gave further impetus to price gains. Meanwhile, emphasis to withdrawal of Russian wheat offerings was also given by detailed advices showing disappointing government collections of wheat, especially in the north Caucasus, the lower Volga, and the Ural and Ukraine districts, averaging hardly a fourth of the expected quotas. There were advices, too, of very unsatisfactory harvest weather in Belgium, with a great portion of the crop out of condition.

Even on decided advances, sellers of wheat futures here were scarce at times, despite weakness of Wall street securities. Among the factors stimulating wheat gains were advices that swarms of locusts had invaded 800 square miles of the Argentine provinces of Santa Fe, Cordova and Santiago, threatening crops including wheat and corn. Complaints of deficiency of subsoil moisture both in United States and Canadian wheat districts were also at hand. Corn and oats were strengthened by scantiness of receipts.

Provisions derived firmness from grains, regardless of setbacks in hog values.

4 SQUIRRELS FALL FROM ONE SHOT

By United Press

CARDINGTON, O., Sept. 16—Carlos Miller, hunting near here brought down four grey squirrels with one shot, he reported today.

Miller discharged his shotgun into a spot where a bushy tail had disappeared. Squirrels started to fall, one, two, three, four of them.

Miller exhibited the four squirrels to vouch for his story.

Bank Clearings.

Bank clearings for yesterday were reported at $69,260.55. Due to the unusual heavy clearings last week, because of the distribution of city and county funds, no comparison was made.

RETURN OF BANK'S MONEY IS SOUGHT

Gallon Receiver Sues Brokerage Firm for $187,822 Spent by Casey.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 16—Through action in federal court, A. E. Evenson, receiver for the Citizens' National bank at Gallon, today was attempting to regain $187,822, and interest, which James Earl Casey, former president, allegedly embezzled and deposited with Vercoe & Co., a brokerage firm, of Columbus, Mansfield and New York.

A petition asking the return of the money said to be due was filed here against the firm and its operators.

Evenson charged the firm had knowledge that the money and assets deposited by Casey had been embezzled by him "to be used in playing the stock market."

The brokerage firm should have known that Casey could not have carried an account with his own funds, "because he never had a salary of over $5,000 a year," the petition said. It also charged that investigation by the company would have showed that Casey was "heavily indebted."

Casey, according to the petition, had three accounts, the first of which was opened on Sept. 9, 1927. One was listed under the name of the bank, and the other was known as the count of "the Citizens' National bank of Gallon, special."

The bank was prohibited by its charter from dealing in stocks, according to the petition.

Dealings were carried on with the Mansfield branch of the firm, the petition said. The account, it added, "was kept alive with securities belonging to the bank."

SQUIRREL HUNTERS BARRED FROM PARKS

Reports of Shooting Brings Warning from Commission Head.

A warning to hunters to stay out of city parks was issued today by Dr. F. R. Mann, chairman of the park board. Persons caught carrying firearms in the park are subject to prosecution and will be arrested if caught, Dr. Mann said.

The warning was issued this morning after reports had been given the park commission by south side residents that hunters had been shooting at squirrels in McKinley park on the southern edge of the city.

Watchmen at the park have been instructed to have hunters caught in the park arrested and prosecuted.

"We want squirrels to multiply in the parks, and to be fully protected from hunters," Dr. Mann said. Many of the squirrels are fairly tame, having been fed by picnickers.

ROBINSON IS GIVEN PENITENTIARY TERM

Faces One to 15 Years for Burglaries; Two Others Sentenced.

Richard A. Robinson, alias Richard Roberts, who yesterday pleaded guilty in common pleas court to seven indictments charging breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny, was sentenced to one to 15 years in Ohio penitentiary by Judge George B. Scofield yesterday afternoon.

Robinson was indicted by the grand jury on counts charging him with breaking into several store rooms and shops here this year.

Joe Martin, who pleaded guilty to petit larceny, was sentenced to 30 days in Columbus workhouse and was fined $100.

Mickey Shay, who also pleaded guilty to a charge of petit larceny, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and was fined $100.

AID SOCIETY MEETS

CARDINGTON, Sept.

FORGET-ME-NOT DAY CAPTAINS ARE NAMED

Drive Sponsored by Disabled Veterans Will Be Held Oct. 10.

Team captains were named and plans discussed for the observance of Forget-Me-Not day Oct. 10 at the meeting of members of the Marion chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World war last night at the armory. Reports of the committee showed that preparations for the sale were progressing and plans will be completed at the next meeting.

Captains for the drive are Mrs. R. W. Koeppin, Miss Alice Crow, Miss Murial McMurray and Miss Virginia Sullivan. The committee in charge of the sale includes Rev. B. E. Hillman, chairman, R. M. Tumbleson, I. E. Wittbalager, J. M. Eddington and C. R. Hartley. Dr. James W. McMurray has been named major in command of teams for the drive.

The program hour included a booster talk on the drive by Dr. McMurray and talks by Commander Fred Miller and Rev. B. E. Hillman. A special booster meeting will be held in connection with the next meeting of the chapter Oct. 6, when local speakers will be heard. A social hour in charge of the following committee will follow the program: Mrs. J. L. Station, chairman, Mrs. E. W. Koeppin, Mrs. Murray Stayner and Mrs. Fred Miller.

During the business session it was voted to furnish a double deck cot to be installed in the rooms at the Salvation Army for use by transient veterans. Approximately $33 was voted for the project.

Prayer by Rev. B. E. Hillman preceded the social hour last night and refreshments were served.

Marion Becomes Part of Lima Methodist District

Wyandot County Also Transferred; George F. Barber New Superintendent; Assignment of Ministers Announced.

No changes in the pastorship of any of the local Methodist Episcopal churches were made at the Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church which closed in Columbus yesterday. Dr. C. E. Turley was reappointed as pastor of the Epworth church, Rev. W. M. George as pastor of the Wesley church and Rev. Albert Slack as pastor of the Asbury church. With the dissolution of the Delaware district, Marion county has now become a part of the Lima district. Wyandot county, which was also included in the Delaware district has also been incorporated in the Lima district. The Delaware district was one of two districts dissolved at the conference. Rev. H. E. Armacost, who served as superintendent of the Delaware district, was assigned to Middletown.

Boundary lines of the Columbus district were shifted to exclude the Grove City and Harrisburg churches, both of which were absorbed by the Chillicothe district.

Other ministers assigned in this district of which George F. Barber is superintendent, were:

Ada, W. W. Wiant; Ada Circuit (T. J. Carey); Agosta, C. W. Black; Alger-Harrod, E. B. Thomas; Belle Center, O. P. Hoffman; Dunkirk, A. L. Vandergriff; East Kenton (George Herd); Forest, C. A. Bowers; Green Camp, E. R. Rector.

Kenton: Epworth, W. A. Deaton; First, W. M. Harford; Kenton Circuit (R. P. Kuhns); LaRue, C. A. Hughes; Morral, George Schertzer; Mt. Victory, T. F. Smith.

Prospect, J. N. Chandler; Richwood, D. E. Rhonds; Roundhead (A. E. Grant); Upper Sandusky, Norman Sweat; Waldo (J. A. Currier); West Mansfield, L. S. Kennard.

Other assignments in territory near this city were: Radnor, A. J. Bussard; Carey, C. W. Sultzbach; DeGraff, D. G. Hall; Magnetic Springs, H. P. Daugherty, and Raymond, O. E. Hall.

FOUR DIE AS BURNING PLANE FALLS INTO BAY

Pilot and Three Passengers Victims of Tragedy at San Francisco.

By The Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif., Sept. 16—A passenger-mail plane of the Pacific Air Transport caught fire and plunged into San Francisco bay today, carrying its pilots and three passengers to death.

Shortly after taking off for Portland, the plane evidently caught fire and its pilot, Ray Bourderaux of Medford, Ore., turned back toward the airport. He was attempting to effect a safe landing when flames enveloped the ship and it dived several hundred feet, struck the water and sank.

The passengers were:

Kirk Herre, of the Seattle Star, Seattle.

W. H. Dissel of San Francisco.

F. I. Sheehan of San Francisco.

The craft carried a consignment of mail, the value of which was unknown to airport officials.

Aviation authorities said the cause of the fire was a mystery. The plane, a trimotored ship, nosed over and settled on its back in about 30 feet of water.

A diver said the bodies of the pilot and passengers were huddled in the cabin.

Bordeaux formerly was an army flier, having been stationed at Crissy field, San Francisco. He joined the Boeing organization only recently. Dissel and Sheahan had booked passage to Portland and Herre was going to Seattle.

BAG LIMIT RULINGS RECEIVED HERE

Clerk of Courts Obtains Interpretations of Game Laws from Guthery.

Rulings on bag limits to conserve game fowl were announced through the office of Everett B. Grigsby, clerk of courts, by I. S. Guthery, state director of agriculture.

A daily bag limit of four birds for snow goose, blue goose, white fronted goose and brant is fixed in the new ruling. The open season for these birds is Oct. 16 to Nov. 15. The limit will be in effect four years.

A daily limit of 25 coot is also specified for a four-year period. The open season for coot is the same as for geese.

Not more than 15 wild ducks, including Mergansers, can be taken during the next four years in the open season from Oct. 16 to Nov. 15. Elder and wood ducks are not affected by this ruling.

The attorney general's ruling on laws regulating the sale of minnows in Ohio has been forwarded to Clerk Grigsby. The opinion specifies that minnows exported to Ohio from other states can not be sold without a license, and that it is illegal for a dealer to have more than 4,000 minnows at one time or to sell more than 100 minnows to one person in one day. Minnows can not be exported from this state.

LODGEMEN WILL BE HONORED AT MEET

Committee Named To Plan Barbecue Supper Here.

A committee on arrangements for a barbecue supper Oct. 29 was named last night at the meeting of Mizpah Encampment No. 50, I. O. O. F. at the lodge hall. The committee is headed by T. E. Bolander with J. A. Miller and L. F. Haller as aids and will meet with a committee from Lima Encampment No. 62 to plan the event which is to honor R. G. Williamson of Marion, grand patriarch of the grand encampment of Ohio Mizpah encampment and the Koskiusko lodge band.

The Lima encampment is sponsoring the affair in return for courtesy shown it by the Marion bodies. It is planned to serve a goat barbecue supper at the lodge hall at 6:30 p. m. with an accompanying program.

Other routine business of the lodge was transacted before adjournment last night. The lodge will next meet Sept. 29.

MAN FINED $10 ON GAS THEFT CHARGE

Harry Newman, arrested on Fanning street early Monday morning on a charge of stealing gasoline from the tank of a parked car, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning and was fined $10 and costs.

Paul McPeak, who was arrested with Newman, pleaded not guilty and is being held under $25 bond for a hearing Saturday. The owner of the car saw two men syphoning the gasoline from the car and called police.

COLLINGS' BODY FOUND ON SHORE

Clear Evidence of Murder Revealed in Death of Yachtsman.

would have done no swimming with his feet bound and his hands tied behind him, as his body was found, even had he not been unconscious from his injuries, which seemed unlikely.

Collings had evidently been roughly handled before he was thrown in the water, for besides the deep hole in his head and the cut across his throat his arms were severely bruised and there was a deep cut in one elbow.

Inspector Harold King, commanding Nassau detectives, on verifying that the body was that of Collings announced the finding.

An immediate general alarm was sent out for two men, one about 50 years of age, the other a youth of 18 who, Mrs. Collings said, had thrown her husband into the water. The finding of the body evidently clinched the story which she had told authorities through days of constant quizzing.

The Collings tragedy was revealed last Thursday morning when Mrs. Collings was found marooned on a motorboat in Oyster bay, clad only in a thin house dress but protected from the chill of dawn by four blankets.

Amazing Story Related

She told an amazing story of piracy late Wednesday night. She said two men in a canoe boarded the anchored Collings cabin cruiser Penguin, bound her husband and threw him overboard, abducted her, and abandoned five-year-old Barbara Collings on the Penguin. Barbara was found by a party of yachtsmen who found the Penguin drifting without lights.

Mrs. Collings has twice reenacted the scene she says took place on the Penguin and has over and over again told her story to investigators. District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards of Nassau announced his entire belief in her story, but District Attorney Alexander Blue of Suffolk told her flatly that he disbelieved her. Later he acknowledged that the story might be true even though it was too fantastic to seem believable.

Mrs. Collings said the "pirates" were an elderly man and a youth of about 18. The elder man, she said, offered her indignities in the canoe in which she was taken from the Penguin, which she said she left without a struggle in the belief by so doing she would draw the men away from her little daughter.

She first told police that when the men appeared she heard them offer her husband $100 to take a wounded man to the Connecticut shore. Collings refused, she said, and was then attacked. Later she expressed the belief that the talk of a wounded man was a ruse as there was no one in the canoe but the two assailants when she was placed in it.

Hotel Clue Fruitless

The men gave her four blankets with which to keep warm she said. One of them was found to be marked with the name of the Hotel Charles in Springfield, Mass. But this clue led to nothing. The hotel register showed the name of a Mr. and Mrs. Collingborne, but Mrs. Collings convinced the authorities that she and her husband had never been to the hotel.

Further mystery was added to the case by remarks little Barbara Collings made when she was found in the cabin of the deserted Penguin. H. L. Notoman, one of the yachtsmen who boarded the Penguin, told the authorities that she told him both her father and mother had gone for a swim with all their clothes on and that Collings had lost his job. Collings, who began a career as an engineer after graduating from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, soon retired and had not worked, so far as could be learned, for seven years. He was 38 years old at the time of his death.

Under examination by Blue, Mrs. Collings acknowledged that her story was "highly illogical" but insisted that it was entirely true. It was believed today that jurisdiction in the case would probably go now to Blue, as the waters where the body was found are off the Suffolk county shore. Previously it was not determined in which county the crime was committed and so both Blue and Edwards had been working on the case.

It was decided to take the body to Huntington, which is in Suffolk county, and from Patchogue, the county seat. It was learned that Blue and a staff of assistants were leaving immediately for Huntington to take full charge of the investigation. It was not immediately announced whether Mrs. Collings would be again summoned from her Stamford home to view the body.

FILMS ARE SHOWN AT GRANGE MEETING

Three motion picture reels were shown last night at the meeting of Progressive grange No. 2445 at the grange hall. The reels were furnished through the courtesy of D. J. Shelton and Fred Ellery and portrayed the development of various farm and industrial implements.

A fish pond was another feature of the entertainment. It was decided to hold the next meeting Sept. 22 instead of in two weeks due to the Marion county fair the last week of September.

MINISTER'S WIDOW CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Olive Holverstott Dies at Daughter's Home in Cardington.

Mrs. Olive Holverstott 77, of 187 east Columbia street, widow of Rev. Henry H. Holverstott died today at 1:30 a. m. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. B. Clark in Cardington. She had been ill one month of paralysis.

Mrs. Holverstott was born March 13, 1854 in Fayette county and was the daughter of Isaac and Mary Rosebrook Shields, natives of Ross county. Her first marriage was to John S. Cook, Jan. 30, 1873 at Stanton, O. His death occurred Oct. 9, 1904. Her marriage to Rev. Holverstott took place in this city June 24, 1906. Rev. Holverstott died Oct. 3, 1924. Mrs. Holverstott was a member of the Christian church.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Elmer Richards of Avondale avenue, this city, 15 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. Three brothers, John Shields of Prospect, George Shields of Hillsboro and Harry Shields of Sabina also survive. Five children, five sisters and one brother are deceased.

The body will be removed from the Curtis mortuary to the home on east Columbia street Thursday morning. Funeral services will be held at the home Friday at 2:30 p. m. and interment will be made in the Marion cemetery.

LOCAL FLYING CLUB BUYS 2-PLACE PLANE

Members Plan Activities; Charles Whysall President of Group.

The Marion Flying club, a group of young Marion men interested in aviation, yesterday took possession of a new two-place Aeronca plane purchased by the club for training purposes. The plane was flown here from Cincinnati yesterday by Harold W. Cobb, manager and pilot at Marion airport, and Charles Whysall, president of the club.

Other officers of the club besides Whysall are Glenn O. Kost, vice president; James Richards, secretary and treasurer; Harold Cobb, flight instructor and manager.

The club will hold group meetings, and members will be given flying instruction. It is planned to continue activities of the club throughout the winter, assuring activity at the port all year.

DEATH TOLL MOUNTS IN DEVASTATED CITY

Rehabilitation Work at Standstill as Belize Recovers from Shock.

By The Associated Press

BELIZE, British Honduras, Sept. 16—Plans for rehabilitation of Belize remained at a standstill today while residents sought recovery from the shock of the hurricane that brought death and disaster to the city Thursday.

The death toll was officially estimated by navy doctors at 1,500 to 2,000. Nearly 1,000 bodies have been burned.

Whether the city will be rebuilt depends upon the problematic success in cleaning up the wreckage of the frame buildings that housed Belize's 13,600 residents.

United States navy doctors, rushed by plane and boat to the scene of the tragedy, continued today their efforts to avoid a wave of fever because of a lack of suitable drinking water.

Prison crews tossed body after body into the five pyres where the city's dead were burned without identification or ceremony. With the funeral fires burning for the fourth consecutive day, accurate count of the bodies was abandoned.

One hundred and fifty bodies were located in the ruins of a Catholic church yesterday.

COUNTRY INDORSES GO-TO-SCHOOL PLAN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—President Hoover's unemployment relief organization announced today a nation-wide response to its "back-to-school" movement.

The relief group has been conducting a campaign to keep young people in school to prevent them from competing for jobs with heads of families and losing educational advantages.

The movement has been indorsed, the organization announced today, by school authorities, educators, chambers of commerce, service associations, character-building societies and women's organizations. Communications from all sections were received commending the plan.

that a careful check of police officers' expense accounts on official trips be made.

Attack Road Issue

The issuance of $43,000 worth of relief bonds under the Pringle-Roberts bill provided text for a brief argument. When officials explained that money obtained from the bonds had been appropriated for relief purposes, and that money previously appropriated for relief purposes was thrown back into the county general fund, Jacoby charged that the real result of issuing the bonds was to relief the county general fund, and not the relief fund. Officials replied that the tax commission of Ohio was fully aware of plans of local officials when it sanctioned issuance of the bonds.

The discussion and study of the budget was to continue this afternoon. County commissioners are scheduled to take final action on the budget Thursday at 1 p. m.

MISSIONARIES WILL TALK AT RICHWOOD

Ensign and Mrs. Kimball on Salvation Army Program.

Ensign and Mrs. Lyman C. Kimball, missionary workers in South Rhodesia will give an illustrated lecture on their work in Africa at the Salvation Army hall in Richwood tonight.

Arrangements for the meeting are in charge of Captain and Mrs. John Hunter of this city, who also are in charge of the Richwood corps. The program will include songs and the lecture, together with an exhibit of native curios.

Ensign and Mrs. Kimball have been in African missionary work since their marriage in January, 1924. For one and one-half years they worked among the Zulus in Natal and for six years Ensign Kimball has been principal of the Howard training institute in South Rhodesia. Their staff has grown from the leaders with their three native assistants to 10 white officers and 12 natives. Students at the institute number about 125 resident pupils and about 100 day students from neighboring villages.

Rhodesia has now been separated from the union of South Africa and made into a separate territory with Colonel Moffat in charge as territorial commander.

Ensign and Mrs. Kimball with their two children, Lyman Jr., and Alice Audrey, are spending some time in this country.

BRITISH NAVY MEN SCORE IN PAY FIGHT

Admiralty Promises Action To Prevent Hardships from Proposed Cuts.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 16—Bluejackets of the British navy's Atlantic fleet, through a series of demonstrations against cuts in pay, obtained from the admiralty today a promise of reexamination of the new rates with a view to alleviation of such hardships as might be revealed.

Announcement was made in the house of commons by Sir Austen Chamberlain, first lord of the admiralty, that ships of the Atlantic fleet had been ordered to proceed to their home ports immediately.

The government had authorized the admiralty, he added, to propose measures for alleviating hardships in those classes of cases in which "the reductions press exceptionally."

He gave no details of the origin of the trouble nor of the course it had taken among the men of the fleet who were reported to have staged a sort of non-violent mutiny in protest against prospective pay cuts.

What he said, however, made it clear that the government had capitulated at least to the extent of investigating the complaints with a view to remedying whatever hardships might be found.

TELEPHONE RATE CUT IS ORDERED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 16—Rate reductions ranging from 10 cents to 60 cents a month were ordered by the Ohio Public Utilities commission today for the Ohio Central Telephone company's exchanges at Wooster, Millersburg, Holmesville, Nashville, Orville, Shreve, Fredericksburg, Rittman and Apple Creek.

The new rates set by the commission are to be effective as of Aug. 1, 1928, and as a consequence, the company is required to refund a total of $62,339 to its subscribers. The company has been collecting rates which the commission held to be excessive, under bond since Aug. 1, 1928.

CHARGES AGAINST MYERS DISMISSED

LeRoy Myers, arrested Saturday night on a grand larceny charge, was released this morning and the charge dismissed by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin when the prosecuting witness failed to appear. Myers, who was arrested on an affidavit filed by Flora Heffley charging that he had stolen clothing valued at $57.80 June 19, denied knowing the woman, when arrested. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge Martin Monday and his bond was fixed at $500.

H. L. DOHERTY of New York and many other American cities, not discouraged by the depression, has bought in the Miami Biltmore hotel and the Miami Biltmore Country club at Coral Gables, in Florida. He says he will have the "largest, most representative club and all-year sports organization ever launched in this country." It is pleasing to know that somebody keeps his courage in the passing depression.

And it is amusing to know that today when the greatest real estate bargains in years are available those that would have paid three times the price a few years ago will not buy now.

A. J. Cummings, British associate editor of the London News-Chronicle, wishes to announce, borrowing an expression from us, that he has "sized us up."

To the question, "What can America teach Britain in the present economic blizzard?" he answers with the one word "nothing."

We are just "wallowing" through the slump, which isn't a bad description, and he refers to our "blundering, wasteful, antiquated method of trying to keep millions of unemployed persons and their families from starving in the midst of plenty."

An Englishman talking of "antiquated American methods," when a hundred American mechanics with American methods produce ten times as many automobiles as are produced by the same number of British mechanics with British methods, makes you feel that the criticism does not cut very deeply.

We admit, however, that this British friend sees clearly when he refers to our "muddled ideas of statesmanship, confusion of counsel, lack of leadership and total absence of any practical plans for meeting a prolonged crisis."

PROGRAM IS GIVEN AT GRANGE MEET

A program was presented at the meeting of Kirkpatrick grange No. 2944 in the hall last night. During the business session the members were given a grade of 78 in the inspection of the work by Deputy Master Elmer Williams.

Mrs. Harry Beers entertained with a piano solo and Mary Hord contributed a recitation. A vocal solo by Ralph Weir was followed by a reading by Vivian Likens and a playlet by Vera Beers, Vivian Likens and Catherine Weir. A violin solo by Lois Clutter and a talk by S. B. Slowe closed the program. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be Oct. 12.

SHORTAGE OF CANS HERE IS RELIEVED

With the arrival of several cars of glass cans, the shortage which last week threatened to curtail the canning of surplus fruit and vegetables was relieved this week. For several days last week the supply was practically exhausted and efforts to obtain supplies were useless.

One wholesaler reported receiving a car of cans Saturday and expected another soon. Other dealers reported an increase in the supply which they said would very likely provide for the demand during the remainder of the season.

HISTORIC FARM HOUSE IN RUINS

By The Associated Press

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 16—A smoldering mass of ruins was all that remained today of the old Colonial farm house used by George Washington and his staff as their headquarters during the battle of Brandywine in 1777.

The structure, known throughout the country as "Washington's headquarters," caught fire and burned to the ground at Chadds Ford, near here, early today.

Haberman Pays Fine.

Fred Haberman, III, of 478 south Main street, arrested yesterday afternoon on a reckless driving charge, paid a fine of $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty to the charge before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin in municipal court this morning. Habermann, who was arrested on south Prospect street, was driving fast and in a reckless manner, the police said today.

Woman Fined $100.

Mrs. Olive Young of Mark street, arrested Sept. 8 on a charge of possessing liquor and who pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin, was fined $100 and costs this morning when she changed her plea to guilty. She was released under bond for the payment of the fine.

VOLCANO ACTIVE

By The Associated Press

CATANIA, SICILY, Sept. 16—Mt. Etna has sprung into action and residents of the vicinity are alarmed at the column of smoke which pours from the mountain. The director of the Etna observatory said an eruptive conduit formed fifteen years ago has come to life again and if the level of the lava rises only slightly there will be an eruption. The present activity has been developing for three months, he said.

should attend and cooperate in one of the greatest civic movements Marion has ever seen."

C. B. King: "Everyone should attend, lend cooperation and support. A good attendance will promote a better understanding of the city by Marionites and will work for the benefit of Marion."

M. L. McDaniel: "Every one in the city should attend to see what Marionites think of themselves."

M. C. O'Brien: "The cause is worthy of the support of all. A good turnout of citizens would be a fitting climax to the welfare meetings held last spring."

Ed. C. Watters: "It will be to the advantage of every citizen having the welfare of Marion at heart to attend this meeting."

Asa Queen: "This has been one of the greatest efforts ever made to help Marion. Citizens can do no less than support it."

"For a Better Marion"

Roscoe Merger: "The path leading toward a better Marion will be pointed out tonight, every citizen should be there to start the city moving along that path."

French Crow: "Marionites who sincerely wish to help the city can not afford to be absent from this meeting, nor miss the most comprehensive plan for Marion's betterment ever outlined."

Charles H. Isaly: "Civic-minded citizen will be there."

James R. Smith, Dr. J. C. Altmaier, Dr. H. K. Mouser, R. H. Knecht, R. T. Lewis, and Dr. F. R. Mann expressed their desire that all Marionites be present tonight. All term it as the most significant meeting for the general betterment of Marion ever planned.

Other members of the committee of 32 could not be reached by telephone.

RED CROSS BOARD IN FAVOR OF LEVY

With the belief that the levy provides the only solution to the problem of relief work this winter, members of the executive committee of the Red Cross at their meeting last night, voted in favor of the one mill levy which will be voted on here in November.

The committe also voted to send Miss Margaret Dowd, executive secretary of the Marion County Chapter, to the Ohio welfare conference in Akron from Oct. 6 to 9.

FOUR PERSONS HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Sept. 16—Four Bucyrus residents were injured in automobile accidents last night and this morning. Miss Mary Stone suffered a bruised right arm and eye and wrenched side and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bash were slightly injured when the Stone car was hit by a truck about seven miles south of here at 11 p. m. yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott MacDonald figured in an automobile accident about 5:30 a. m. today near Moncosville while enroute to Painesville. Mrs. MacDonald was slightly cut and her husband escaped injury when their car was sideswiped by a truck trailer.

Designs Sail Plane

The wing of the sail plane is of the high lift type meaning it is suspended above the fuselage like the upper wing of a biplane in stead of being attached directly to the fuselage. The wing is longer and narrower than on a glider and gives more buoyancy in the air enabling the plane to soar in the air. No motor is used although it has a detachable nose so that a small two cylinder power plant could be installed. No plane exactly corresponding to this design may be manufactured without Slatzers reassignment of the license to the manufacturer. Ordinary sail planes of the one-passenger type sell for $700 to $1500 and one following Slatzer's design could be made to sell for about $400 he said.

The primary glider Slatzer designed calls for construction of aluminum alloy tubing of nickel steel and aluminum which saves weight and is easily repaired. This ship Slatzer said is unusual through the elimination of landing and flying wires above and below the wing. These are replaced by three main body spars of the alloy metal supporting the wing thus guarding against rust or coss breakage.

ASK PAYMENT FOR BUILDING HANGAR

BUCYRUS, Sept. 16—In behalf of several local business men who acted as backers of the construction of a hangar at the municipal airport, recently purchased by the city south of Bucyrus, Earl Leonard appeared before the city council Tuesday night requesting that the city authorize the payment of approximately $2500 for labor and material incident to the construction of the building.

Mayor Arthur Schuler advised council that he was unfavorable to the council paying bills for the buildings, stating that the city did not agree to purchase any buildings on the site and that the city auditor was looking for some one "on whom to hang the taxes."

The question was referred to the finance committee who indicated that a report would be made at the next meeting of council.

SEEK CAUSES OF HIGHWAY DELAY

KENTON, Sept. 16—The Kenton chamber of commerce in weekly session instructed its highway committee to conduct an investigation to determine the reason for the length of time required to complete the work on state route 53 south of Kenton, which was opened Tuesday.

The road has been closed since early summer, it was pointed out, causing much inconvenience to rural residents of that vicinity, as well as making necessary a detour which tourists over the route seek to avoid.

AUTO DRIVER BOUND OVER

Charles Hale Pleads Guilty in Death of Man at Upper Sandusky.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Sept. 16—Charles Hale, who resides northeast of Sycamore near the village of Plankton, Crawford county, charged with manslaughter by Prosecutor David Creger, for running down with his automobile and killing Jacob Launis in this city Saturday night and not stopping after the accident, pleaded guilty in the court of Squire F. E. Weidaw, Tuesday afternoon. He was bound over to the grand jury and his bond fixed at $1,500.

At the time of the accident young Hale was on his way to Lima to visit a girl friend. He did not know Launis had been killed until taken into custody and did not read an account of the accident until Tuesday morning at at the county jail. Hale in his account to officials said "that he started for Lima Saturday evening and that it was dark when he came into Upper Sandusky on the road from the fairgrounds. He had his lights lit and was following a Ford coach but did not pass this car which continued some distance ahead. He said that suddenly a man loomed up in the street a short distance ahead of the car. He honked his horn but the man did not turn or look back.

"I turned to the left to go around him and at the same time he started to walk rapidly to the left side of the street. Before the car could be stopped I ran into him," Hale said. "Alarmed and dazed I drove on without thought of what I was doing and saw the man drop from the auto. I thought I must have killed him but was not sure. A couple of blocks up the street I turned west. When a short distance from town I stopped and began to realize what I had done. Looking the car over I found that half of the glass on the one headlight was broken out and a dent had been made in the radiator shell. I was afraid to go back, so I went on to Lima."

Hale was taken into custody Monday night at Sycamore after admitting to Marshal Charles Mesnard and Night Watchman Carl Norris that he was the one who had run down Launis.

CITY OF GALION ACCEPTS LAND

Gift Tract Will Be Known as American Legion Memorial Park.

Special to The Star

GALION, Sept. 16—A portion of ground abutting on Harding Way-East directly east of the Erie railroad was presented to the city of Galion last night at the regular meeting of the city council. The ground was accepted for park purposes and beautifying work will begin at an early date.

The land, which has a 124-foot frontage on Harding Way-East and 56 feet at the east which tapers down in the form of a triangle, was owned by Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Mosbacher and was purchased by Bishop William M. Brown, the Galion Auto club, the Galion Boxing commission and Dr. H. H. Hartmann and in turn was presented to the city. The deed was accepted by the council. The tract will be known as "American Legion Memorial park."

George Davies, city solicitor, reported at the meeting that he had been in Columbus and was in conference with members of the state utilities commission regarding Big Four crossing protection. He said the commission will recommend flasher lights for Parson street but that conditions are not suitable for flasher lights on Sherman street.

The first reading was held for the ordinance making appropriations to pay back salaries due members of the fire, police and service departments.

An ordinance was passed transferring $5,000 from the general fund to safety fund; $10,000 to service fund and $500 transferred to health fund.

J. F. Romine and Otto Pfeifer, members of the council-firemen's pension board whose terms have expired, were reappointed for one year. The same action was taken on Jay Wirick and R. Polh for the council members of the police board.

Approves Sale.

MARYSVILLE, Sept. 16—A price of $375,000 for the defunct Fisher Brass company, offered by a new company, was approved tentatively by Referee Judge J. R. Kinkade who held up the sale a week on application of a creditor, the Midland bank of Cleveland, so that a higher price may be sought.

DECLINES OFFER OF SOUTHWESTERN LINE

Bucyrus Council Refuses To Accept Proposition of Bankrupt Railway Company.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Sept. 16—Refusing to follow the precedent set forth by several Ohio cities by accepting a proposition as set forth by the Cleveland Southwestern Railway company, now in receivership, providing that the city accept certain portions of the bankrupt company's equipment and permit other portions to be removed by the company, the city council Tuesday night refused to adopt a resolution as submitted by Attorney Abbot of Cleveland, attorney for C. J. Mayer, receiver of the company.

City council in asking that further time be alloted in which to consider the resolution, which is a slightly modified piece of legislation to one submitted to council several weeks ago, acted in line with it's opinion expressed during several recent sessions in which the council body questioned the fact that the line had never been offered for public sale, which it was opined, might possibly have placed the company in position to again be a going concern.

Mayer and Attorney Abbott appeared personally before the council Tuesday acting upon orders from the district court at Cleveland, in whose hands the fate of the bankrupt line lies.

That workmen will be dispatched to the city within the next two weeks to commence removing rails, wires and other equipment as set forth in the resolution, regardless of action of council, was announced by Mr. Mayer, who stated that such was the court order.

The amended resolution as submitted last night to council provides that all rails and ties located in paved streets, will be allowed to remain with no damage to streets and that all poles now in service for fire or police protection will remain intact while wires, poles not in use and other equipment will be removed and salvaged in favor of creditors.

CRAWFORD COUNTY MERGES PRECINCTS

BUCYRUS, Sept. 16—Merging of four Crawford county precincts into two precincts was today authorized by the county election board. It was announced by R. O. Perrott, clerk of the board.

Precincts consolidated include Holmes and Cranberry townships to one voting place in New Washington and north and south Holmes townships which will in the future be located at Holmes Liberty school.

Consolidation of precincts in Bucyrus, Galion and Crestline are being considered by the board in line with an economy program throughout the county. Merging of precincts will mean a saving of approximately $1,500.

Baptists in Session.

Daily Proverb—"The burden which was thoughtlessly got must be patiently borne."

"Borah Is Willing To Seek Presidency, Progressives Say."—Headline. Willing? Why, the Hon. William has had his lightning rod up for the last ten or twelve years!

The name of Lawrance D'Orsay, a most capable British actor who in years past gave delight to American playgoers, is the latest to be added to the long list of stage veterans who this year answered the final call. He died in London Sunday at the age of seventy-one.

Rev. Thomas L. Graham, of St. Patrick's cathedral, New York City, recently uttered warning against the paid reformers who "see sin in legitimate pleasures." Why limit the thing to the paid reformers? The volunteer amateurs are able to spread fully as much gloom.

According to an admirer of Governor Roosevelt, of New York, the governor is just about as good as nominated as the Democratic presidential candidate for 1932, and can write his own platform. That's somewhat beyond the limit to which candidates are usually permitted to go, but if propaganda can accomplish that privilege as well as cinching the nomination, it certainly should be attained by Mr. Roosevelt.

Dr. John F. Barnhill, of Indianapolis, president of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, expressed the view that science is close to the discovery of a serum "which will cure the common cold." Hardly any greater blessing could come to ailing humanity, to say nothing of the economic value of such a discovery, for the "common cold" is with us always.

Enforcement of the "likely to become a public charge" provision of the immigration act has proved so serviceable, that even the immigration people are beginning to wonder why they didn't think of it sooner.

Mayor Frederick G. Sainsbury, of Reading, England, who plans to spend four or five days in Reading, Pennsylvania, during his forthcoming visit to this country, writes to the authorities of the latter city that he would like to visit some nearby Indian village and study Indian life. For some reason he hasn't expressed any inclination to engage in a grizzly bear hunt or take part in a buffalo drive.

Squaring Away.

Merchants, laboring men and politicians are squaring away for the discussion the coming winter is sure to bring concerning the sales tax. May shadow boxing not engage them too closely to pay attention to business.

The administration, it is believed, will do everything possible to avoid tax boosts. Necessity may cause an about-face from this position later, but for the present it is well defined.

In the administration, however, if it be understood to include the cabinet, there is at least one uncertain factor—Andrew Mellon, who believes that the way to keep the nation's credit intact is to balance the budget by taxation, rather than loans.

One important senator, David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, already has declared for a general sales tax. It is not known just why Senator Reed has done this, but the possibility that he may be operating a trial balloon for the administration is admissable.

On the whole, the administration is uncertain concerning a sales tax, or any other new or increased tax. It is obliged, whatever happens, to drive always with one eye glued on the political gauge.

Labor and merchants' associations are pretty generally on record as opposed to the sales tax, for various reasons. They argue that it is inequitable, and that it penalizes rapid turnovers of merchandise, since it is greater on many sales with a low profit than on few sales with a high profit.

Its advocates, on the other hand, have the stronger case, however, because they can point out that the tax is invisible, that it provides a steady revenue, that it is so evenly distributed that no one is penalized, and because they can illustrate how it would work by the present federal and state taxes on cigarets, and state taxes on gasoline.

There will be no sales tax in this country unless absolute necessity forces it. It would be far more to the public liking, therefore, if, instead of speculating on ways to raise more money, politicians would set about seriously to save some. When everything has been made shipshape, when a lot of useless federal bureaus and frumpery has been sheared away, and when economy has come to mean more than a hollow abstraction, the public might possibly be willing to listen to schemes to get more money for the government.

We Forfeit an Honor to Britain.

The United States can no longer boast the possession of the largest liner afloat. That honor has been voluntarily forfeited, and has passed to Great Britain. Until a larger vessel is launched, the Majestic, of the White Star line, will hold the distinction of being the world's largest vessel.

When the Vaterland went into service in May of 1914 her gross tonnage, according to Lloyd's Register, was 54,500. Subsequently the Bismarck, now the Majestic, was launched and given a register by Lloyd's of 56,621 tons. When, however, the Vaterland went into passenger service under our flag in June, 1923, as the Leviathan, Lloyd's raised her register to 59,957 tons. No change was made in the hulls of either vessel. The Majestic has a length of 915 feet and five inches and a beam of 100 feet and one inch against the Leviathan's length of 907 feet and six inches and beam of 100 feet and three inches. But when the Leviathan was reconditioned for use by the United States lines, alterations in her superstructure were designed to make her the largest vessel in the world. Lloyd's recognized her right to that distinction, but the designer of both the Vaterland and the Bismarck and the North Atlantic conference still held that the Majestic was the larger ship.

Evidently it was felt that the distinction of having the largest register was not worth its cost in port dues, which are thirty cents a net ton a year. In any event, the Leviathan has been remeasured by the proper official of the customs house and the first reports received by the commissioner of navigation in Washington indicate that there will be a decrease of about 10,000 tons alike in both gross and net tonnage. This means that her gross tonnage hereafter will be approximately 49,957 and her net tonnage about 17,606.

The difference in the measurements are possible by reason of the difference in the systems followed. The British customs authorities include a vessel's passenger accommodations, while the American do not. Despite this difference, the British customs authorities will accept the new measurements in charging port dues at Southampton and thus smooth the way for an annual saving in the operation of the Leviathan of about $3,000 a year.

The odd phase of the thing is that the Leviathan not only loses first place to the Majestic, but second place to the Berengaria, formerly the Imperator, as well, although the Berengaria has a length of but 883 feet and six inches, a beam of but ninety-eight feet and two inches and a depth of fifty-seven feet and one inch, this depth being a foot and one inch less than the fifty-eight-foot-and-two-inch depth of each of the former German liners built in quick succession after her.

Thus the Leviathan, for the probable purpose of saving $3,000 annually on port dues, accepts a register inferior to that of a vessel twenty-four feet shorter, two feet narrower and of more than a foot less depth. As a matter of fact, she has lost position also to the North German Lloyd liner, Bremen, which registers something like 5,000 tons above the original estimate of 46,000.

From all of which it may be gleaned that, in the light of the difference in systems of measurements used, the registered tonnage of vessels doesn't always give a true indication of their relative size.

Three citizens of LaFayette, Indiana, are under arrest for trying to get rich too quickly. The charge is raising one-dollar bills to tens.

The prosecution of alleged poisoners of "jake" is the object of the United Victims of Ginger Paralysis Association, organized in Oklahoma City with a membership of more than 2,000, which has as a secondary objective a revision of the national food and drug act looking to the prevention of a repetition of "jake" paralysis. At this distance it looks as though a quicker route to the second objective would be the cutting out of the drinking of the stuff.

Editorial Opinion.

WHAT THE GOVERNMENT HAS DONE.

The demands heard for "prosperity loans" and "hunger loans" and doles from Washington, accentuated by the cry that "the government must do something about unemployment," are calculated to convey the impression to a public whose memory is notoriously short that the government has been sitting idly by, twiddling its fingers, while a nation starved.

A restatement of some of the administrations major contributions to the relief of farmers and industrial workers during the period of low farm prices, drought and industrial depression may correct that impression in minds not completely closed by partisan bias. Among them are:

Aids to agriculture, appropriations for the federal farm board	$500,000,000
Advances to farmers in storm, drought and flood-stricken areas, March, 1930	6,000,000
Advances for seed, feed, etc., December 20, 1930	45,000,000
Advances for farther farm rehabilitation, February 14, 1931	20,000,000
Aids to employment: An emergency construction fund, December 20, 1930	116,000,000
Government's ten-year public building program increased by	323,000,000
Annual aid on highways increased for three years from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000	150,000,000
Waterways program enlarged to include new projects that may reach	335,000,000
Aid to veterans. Advance on compensation certificates in excess of	900,000,000

Add to these a great number of minor financial contributions the government has made to the restoration of normal business conditions. The total will not fall far short of $2,500,000,000, a very respectable sum, when the treasury is threatened with a $2,500,000,000 deficit at the end of the current fiscal year.

The tariff has been revised further to protect the farmers, a stringent enforcement of the immigration rules has safeguarded the domestic labor market, a rejuvenated employment service has been brought into action. All that the government could do to coordinate its relief work and that of the states and their subdivisions apparently has been done.

Within the limits of its constitutional and traditional powers, what more could be administration have done, without exposing the country to the dire and inevitable consequences that have followed the dole wherever it has been adopted? The rest is up to the sovereign states and their municipalities. A nation's temple need not be pulled down merely because its roof leaks.—Detroit Free Press.

HIDING OUT.

What Will Better Marion?

The following are the answers of a number of citizens to the question, "What Will Better Marion?"—the second in the questionnaire circulated by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer to get a comprehensive insight into the community feeling regarding our home city, in the hope of arriving at a remedy for handicaps, if any, from which Marion may suffer.

The ultimate and primary object of any community is to advance, progress, grow in population, modernize buildings, homes, etc., thereby making a city that will attract and create interest in a city by visitors who may all sooner or later be interested in a change of location, and if the community can be made attractive and interesting to the transient and visitor or those who might visit some particular locality, seeking new sites, etc., the town with an atmosphere of progressiveness, modernness, attractiveness, etc., will be a strong competitor against other communities, probably much more lax and negligent in their civic pride.

A—A chamber of commerce supported by all interests with an active, well-paid secretary and backed by ample finances.

B—City manager plan of government.

C—A taxpayers' organization represented by a small committee authorized to employ a competent, certified public accountant, who will examine into municipal expenditures, municipal finances and make known to the taxpayers the records and accomplishment of city officeholders.

1—A generous dose or application of the Golden rule.

2—Encouragement of home-owning.

3—A chamber of commerce to help out or throw out chain stores and enterprises.

4—The present depression may automatically limit the number of financial institutions.

5—Cut down all overhead city expenses so as to operate within its means.

A general clean-up embodying:
1—Physical cleanliness of city.
2—Beautifying city.
3—Modern system of displaying merchandise.
4—Individual courtesy and boosting our city to all our own citizens and new-comers, guests and tourists.
5—Paint up and modernize the fronts of the antiquated down-town business houses, especially on Main street.
6—Make the Chautauqua pavilion into a public auditorium and then use it.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Saturday, September 16.

Miss Nellie Wilson left for Buffalo, where she was to marry Dr. H. A. Markwell, of Chicago.

Marion friends learned of the marriage of Miss Macie Gertrude Breen and Mr. Daniel J. Almendinger in Hamilton, Canada, the preceding Sunday.

The Star reported the marriage, the day before in Cincinnati, of Miss Martha Niemann, of that city, and Mr. Theodore F. Laymann, pastor of the German M. E. church of this city.

John M. Andrews was sentenced to death for murder at Warren, Pennsylvania. He was a former resident of Galion.

Friends learned of the marriage in Windsor, Canada, August 31, of Miss Alice Edwards and Mr. J. N. Lewis.

Miss Katherine Earley and Mr. Conrad Gaudert were married by Rev. C. M. Rourke.

Harold May, aged eighteen, fell from the roof of the John Pommert building in Caledonia, and fractured his skull and broke his right wrist.

"Neuralgia" an Old Malady.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There is an uncomfortable human ailment known as "trigeminal neuralgia." The pain associated with it is always described as "almost unbearable." Really it is more painful than any toothache or headache.

The disease is a neuralgia of the face. Sometimes its chief symptom is called "earache pain." Its name was given it because the nerves involved are the "trigeminal nerves," as the scientists call them.

There are two of these trigeminal nerves, one on each side of the face. In the course of each is a knot of nerve tissue, called a "ganglion." Most of the authorities regard this ganglion as the seat of the inflammation, or disturbance, whatever it is, that causes the pain.

This disease has been recognized for hundreds of years. The French used to call it "tic douloureux." Translated, this means "agonizing twitch." It is indeed just that—a tormenting, agonizing, excruciatingly painful, spasmodic ailment.

In the seventeenth century there lived an English judge, Judge Jeffreys. This man was known as "Bloody Jeffreys" because of the severe sentences he imposed. It is recorded that he sent hundreds of men and women to the gallows. It is believed he meted out these terrible punishments because of his sufferings from trigeminal neuralgia. He was in constant pain and consequently in a rage of spirit practically every minute of his life.

At times the pain in this disease may be steady, in the nature of a bearable, dull ache. This alternates with intermittent paroxysms of severe, agonizing spells. Each quiet period is speedily followed by an attack of greater intensity.

One of the modern methods of treatment is the injection of alcohol or some other drug directly into the ganglion. The medicine deadens the nerve so that it carries no messages of pain to the brain.

Of course, there are various remedies and local applications, one of which may give relief. Your doctor will tell you about this. Hot applications, moist or dry, may help to lessen the pain.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

J. C. Q—After lying down for any length of time I notice that I experience numbness in my arms and fingers—this occurs on both sides of the body. What would you advise?

A—This is probably due to some circulatory disturbance—try to improve your general condition first of all, or full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

N. R. Q—What causes persistent cracking at the corners of the mouth?

A—This is probably due to hyper-acidity. Watch your diet and be sure to keep your bowels open. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

MRS. F. J. Q—Would it be possible to remove a large blue vein on the nose? It is very prominent and shows from the front and side.

A—Consult a skin specialist for examination and advice.

MRS. W. C. C. Q—A very dear friend of mine fifty years of age has been troubled with gout for several years. What diet or treatment would you advise?

A—Try to find the underlying cause first of all. Application of heat as well as proper diet should make for improvement. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Mrs. Overweight. Q—The ball of my foot pains and the toes ache—would this be due to arch trouble or is it due to a diabetic condition?

A—This may be due to fallen arches—see an orthopedist for examination and advice. It is also possible that your weight has a bearing on the trouble.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Cuvier, Systematizer.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

During the early part of the nineteenth century, Cuvier is reported to have said: "Show me a single bone of an extinct animal and I will reconstruct it." This naturally presupposed a knowledge of what the animal was. From his knowledge of anatomy and correlating one part with other parts, according to size, he ventured to reconstruct the entire animal. This demonstration created a profound impression throughout the civilized world, and is still often referred to.

George Cuvier was born on August 23, 1769, at Montbeliard, of Huguenot ancestry. His mother was regarded as a woman of unusual mental powers. At the age of fourteen he entered the Academy of Stuttgart, and there displayed a great enthusiasm for natural history. In 1788 he became a tutor in a family living on the coast of Normandy, and there he enjoyed unusual opportunities for the study of fossils and marine life. At the age of twenty-six, thanks to the help and influence of Geoffrey Saint-Hilaire, he began to work in the Jardin des Plantes in Paris. The following year he was chosen professor of natural history at the central school of the Pantheon, and four years later took a similar position in the College of France. In the course of time he became permanent secretary of the Institute of France and chancellor of the University of Paris.

Prior to Cuvier's day the classification of animal life which prevailed universally was that of Linnaeus, the Swedish naturalist. Little was known of the facts of the anatomy of animals in that day, and the classification of Linnaeus was artificial and very inadequate.

In his most famous work, on "The Animal Kingdom," Cuvier set up a four-fold division, which was far superior to the classification of Linnaeus. Cuvier was the best qualified man of his day to do this, on account of his profound knowledge of anatomy. Cuvier was a great student of marine life, actually describing five thousand species of fishes. This was a colossal task, and a monument of devotion to science.

Another phase of Cuvier's work was the study of the fossil remains of animals. It was recently stated that no student of this science, paleontology, has ever equaled Cuvier. This great investigator made an especial study of the extinct mammals, and his description of these remarkable animals greatly enhanced his fame.

Cuvier was not a philosopher, but a masterly observer, recorder and arranger of facts. Cuvier systematized the forms of the animal world. This founder of comparative anatomy died on May 13, 1832.—Copyright, 1931, by International News Service.

When Chase Hung Out His "Shingle."

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Young attorneys just getting established and impatient because of slow business might get some encouragement and consolation out of a letter written by Salmon P. Chase to his brother in September, 1830, when he had been practicing law at Cincinnati a little more than a month. His brother had written him in a despondent vein, and in reply Mr. Chase said that he had such spells himself and could sympathize with him. The best cure was hard work.

It was probably to let his brother see that his own situation was not much worse than that of others, that Mr. Chase gave him detailed information about how he was coming on. He said it would be fine to tell of his office crowded with clients, and success with cases at the bar, but he had to confess that so far but two persons had visited his office. From one of them he never expected to receive anything, and the other had paid him just four dollars. Cincinnati had many old lawyers of ability and they had the profitable law practice of the city pretty well in their own hands, and a young man found it hard to break in.

And then Mr. Chase ventured into the future, told what his hopes were and with what he would be satisfied. If he could make above $10 and expenses for the next three months, $20 in the next three and $30 in the next three, he would feel that he was doing pretty well. He estimated that at that rate of growth in his legal business he would be able to look upon himself as well-established in the law when he reached the age of twenty-five. He was evidently not setting his stakes very high.

Unfortunately no letter is in existence telling us how nearly Mr. Chase came up to those expectations in his practice. He must have done fairly well, however, for he remained in Cincinnati and stuck to the law. However, he found time to write some law books, which came to be looked upon as more important than their author supposed. But the letter is important as setting forth the difficulties of a struggling young lawyer who was to reach the highest position in the jurisprudence of his country.

From Our Readers.

HE IS SHOCKED.

Editor Star—It was quite a shock to me upon reading the editorial page of the Star of September 10 under the caption, "It Is Up to the Veterans," to find that the above mentioned article was entirely wrong. Either the party does not know the truth or he does not want to know the truth.

I, as well as every other ex-service man, resent the term "raid the treasury" as well as lots of people who never served in the war. Add the term, bonus, is just as unfair. It is not bonus, but adjusted compensation. There is a difference in the two words. Just a few words about the so-called treasury raid. In the first place several years ago congress voted us an adjusted compensation which would require the setting aside of $112,000,000 a year to pay it off. Up to the present, not one cent has gone into that fund. Last session of congress passed a bill whereby each veteran might borrow one half of his amount, at four and one-half per cent. interest. This nets the government $50,000,000 a year. Is that what you call a raid? How about the large refund made on income taxes where some received as much as three or four millions. That, of course, was OK. I can not for the life of me understand why certain interests of this country object to what little the ex-service men receive. They made plenty while the boys were over there. I believe also that the ex-service men pay taxes as well as any one. The American legion is here to serve the community, state and nation, not only for one but for all to the best of their ability, and I do not believe they will break their faith. But I know of others that have not kept the faith. The same fellows that said nothing too good for you boys when the guns of battle were crashing and towns were being blowed up, now are the ones that squawk the most about every little thing that the boys may get. I do not believe that any one had their feet tied during the war and lots of fellows would give everything they possess to be a member of the legion, but that is one membership that can not be bought. It is believed that a large number of ex-service men would say all well and good we will not ask for anything, but when this country loans millions to foreign countries at less than what the soldiers can borrow their own money for it is time to call a halt. Some of our good people are spending money to keep the conservative element of the legion in power, but I believe they will fail. I say long live the legion.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Sept. 16—Because of New York's pronounced ache of loneliness it offers a greater variety of unusual pets than almost any city on the globe. These do not include dogs, cats, canaries and goldfish so plentiful in every large city.

When I lived at the Ritz there were housed on its roof a 200-pound alligator—the pet of a German countess—and a collection of monkeys brought back from some far-flung corner of the world by Billy Leeds, one of the best-known of the Broadway play-boys.

In the Hotel Majestic, one wing was given over entirely to a collection of squirrels, the especial pets of a famous anthropologist. At one time they numbered more than 400 and aroused officials of the health department to demand their removal to a suburb.

For many years, in fair weather, Central park strollers became accustomed to a striking red-haired girl who sat on a bench under a wisteria arbor reading with an enormous white cockatoo perched on her shoulder, squawking and screaming at passersby.

Irene Castle first introduced the marmoset, dropping in one late evening at Sustansky's, as I recall, with one coyly peeping out her white muff. There are perhaps twenty-five marmosets serving as pets in Manhattan today, chiefly owned by ladies of the stage.

Pepy de Albrew, former husband of Wilda Bennett, appeared at the Mayfair dance a recent night with a white mouse clinging to his evening coat lapel and Martin Johnson and his wife now have four young gorillas in their Ninth street apartment, along with a number of apes.

A Harlem voodoo doctor strolls Lenox avenue with a trained skunk on a leash. Ziegfeld's daughter, Patricia, has a baby elephant. In a fire in a Sutton Place home this spring a woman rushed back into the flames and returned with three coiling snakes. She is an interior decorator of distinction.

I talked to a man this morning who in the twirling flurry of temporary defeat made two attempts at suicide—putting a pistol to his head before a bathroom mirror and undressing and placing a razor to his throat in a well-filled tub. He confessed that upon each occasion he lost courage. He is still obsessed with the idea, but with two failures behind him I have an idea he will snap out of it.

• • •

What years of public resentment could not accomplish, the economic—and what an overworked word!—collapse may achieve, i. e., the death of the cover charge. Practically all road houses abolished the custom this summer as did a few of the remaining night clubs. It was a polite gyp of the boom days, starting at a dollar at old Reisenweber's and reaching a five dollar charge in exclusive spots. In the beginning, it resulted not only in innumerable quarrels, but many rough and tumble fist fights.

• • •

On Second Avenue today I came upon a fusty fly blown candy store displaying heart shaped peppermints with such inscriptions as "Love Me," "O. U.," and "Ever Thine" traced in flaming red. And because I am a ridiculous old sentimentalist my sluggish heart gave the suggestion of a twitch.

• • •

I invariably receive another sentimental pulsing in passing a cobbler's shop—I mean the cobbler of the old school and not the polished chain shop sort. There is one on Forty-Fourth street near the East river. A gray-haired old gentleman with half spectacles sits on his bench in the muggy dimness. One feels he is the friend of all the neighborhood children and the philosophic friend of many elders. The cobbler shop was once a Shinto shrine of American life—a wayside forum of rural erudition. But in big cities at least it is now only a Greek arcade.

A few blocks from the old cobbler's I noticed the Vitamin restaurant was closed. And I was reminded that both vitamins and calories as topics of discussion or an ephemeral paragraph had lost ground. What were they all about anyway?

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Sept. 16—There's nothing particularly new about Americans running afoul of foreign government regulations as did the two aviators, Pangborn and Herndon, in flying over forbidden areas of Japan.

Take it from that white-haired United States senator from Connecticut—Hiram Bingham—flier, explorer and professor, no one knows any better than he how easy it is to have your motives questioned while visiting in foreign lands.

Senator Bingham at one period of his life spent much of his time exploring little-known sections of the world. And he says frequently that he was under suspicion while abroad on his missions.

Authorities seemed to think at times that his activity really camouflaged a Washington engineered bit of spying, designed to dig up military information.

Some even thought that he was seeking hidden treasure.

He remembers one instance in particular, "in the interior of one of those foreign countries," as he puts it. He didn't say which one.

His headquarters was surrounded by soldiers on charges brought by university authorities of that country that he was planning to steal ancient art treasures.

"There was no evidence," he says, "nor was it necessary."

He has done battle on the floor of the senate about this very thing. Before he agreed to vote for the Kellogg pact to outlaw war he demanded assurance that the treaty would not in the least interfere with this country's right to defend the lives and property of American citizens in any part of the world. And he told of his own unhappy experiences in support of his position.

"We should realize," he told the senate, "that it is only in very few countries that a man is considered innocent until he is proved guilty."

• • •

Incidentally, George Norris, of Nebraska, has had experience somewhat comparable to that of Bingham. He was accused with Borah, of Idaho, not so long ago, in so-called forged documents, of receiving large payments from soviet Russia. The documents were repudiated by special committee action.

It amused Norris greatly. Once he drew a hearty chuckle from the senate by observing:

"It is a very fortunate thing for the two of us that we were not in that country at the time, where we would not have any right to defend ourselves."

Wild Winnie Lightner stars in "Gold Dust Gertie" playing at the Ohio Thursday through Saturday, with a supporting cast including the inimitable Olsen and Johnson Claude Gillingwater Arthur Hoyt and Dorothy Christy.

MARK TWAIN EPIC TO SHOW AT PALACE

"Huckleberry Finn," Paramount's sequel to "Tom Sawyer," comes to the Palace Thursday and Friday. Norman Taurog who directed that childhood epic, "Skippy," also directed this cast, which includes Jackie Coogan, Junior Durkin, Mitzi Green and Jackie Searl. Eugene Pallette and Oscar Apfel have villainous roles. Charlotte V Henry is the beautiful young woman who is saved from Pallette and Apfel by Coogan and Durkin

Mitzi Green

Jackie is again "Tom Sawyer" and Durkin is the ever-delightful "Huck Finn" The action of the picture, made from Mark Twain's famous story, takes place about 1850 in the Mississippi river town of St. Petersburg, Mo. It is obvious that I am not wanted here."

"That's nonsense." Sam was contemptuous. "It's entirely up to you whether or not you stay here and personally I think you'd better. It might be more pleasant than walking the streets."

"Perhaps you're right." Fourth answered reminiscently. "At any rate Joan I promise to give the matter careful consideration.

From that time life in the stable went on more or less smoothly. Fourth to be sure utterly refused to speak a single word to his new daughter-in-law and he avoided her as carefully as possible. Of his son however he gradually became more tolerant and it seemed possible that eventually there might be a complete reconciliation.

Nelson as he had anticipated had difficulty in finding a job and it was Peak who gave him something to do. Peak apologized to Sam for the nature of the work and for the small salary that went with it.

Sam waved the apologies away. The salary doesn't matter she said. He and Martha can live at the stable as long as is necessary.

'How about Fourth?' Doesn't he make things difficult?

He did at first but he's calming down now. I think he has something else on his mind. Sam frowned. To tell you the truth Peak I'm just a bit worried about that something else.

"What do you mean"

"I mean that he's fussing about with that darn invention of his again. Every company in the country has told him that it is no good for commercial use but they can't convince Fourth.

"Why be worried." Peak laughed. "It may take his mind off Nelson and it can't do any harm anyhow."

That's just what I'm worried about. I'm afraid it may do harm. She hesitated. You see Peak Fourth has a widow. Her name is Eugenie Frye."

What do you mean — has a widow?

'Just what I say. She's in love with him—that's obvious. She has a lot of money too.

Peak whistled. Do you really mean it? What's his widow like?

Sam smiled. Oh she's—she's—"I see. You mean you're afraid that Fourth might marry her?

Marry her? Sam's eyes opened wide in astonishment. I never thought of that! That would be awful. But no Fourth wouldn't marry her ever. I know him too well to think that.'

"Then what's everything all about. Peak was frankly puzzled. What are you worried about?"

"His invention." Sam explained patiently. Don't you see Peak? I'm afraid he might get money from her for his invention. He was telling her about it the other night, and I'm sure that was what was in his head. He hopes she'll back him financially, and she might be just fool enough to do it.

"I see. Peak considered the idea for a time, but then he smiled and shook his head. I don't think there's any need for anxiety. These rich widows are usually wise birds and since you say that the invention is no good—

I didn't say that—that's just the trouble. If the thing wasn't any good at all it would be an other matter. It is all right. Peak everybody admits that. They just say it isn't practical for commercial use. Fourth might convince his widow that the experts are wrong."

Again Peak pondered. 'If I were you I'd just sit tight and wait. If events make it necessary for you to take steps you can take them.

"You bet I can take them!' Sam was grim. The Widow Frye means nothing to me but I'm not going to stand by and watch her spend her good money for nothing.

Sam knew that Peak's advice was sensible. At the same time waiting was nervous business. Fourth's excitement increased daily. He was continually rushing in and out of the house on mysterious errands. He made innumerable calculations on the backs of old envelopes.

The crisis came quite unexpectedly. Sam came home from the city late one afternoon to find that Fourth had arrived before her. He was playing a lusty march upon the mouth organ and Sam needed no more than a glance to know that he was on the crest of one of his more precipitous emotional waves.

She took off her hat and rubbed her forehead. You look disgustingly cheerful. What's the cause for celebration?"

Celebration? He took the mouth organ from his lips and winked at her. Then he glanced mysteriously about the room and hummed the concluding bars of the tune he had been playing. Who said anything about a celebration. Joan?"

"I did. She regarded him severely. There's no use in trying to be coy. Fourth. You took exactly as though you'd swallowed the canary. What's up?'

My dear child! He smiled with intense satisfaction. I'm not aware that anything is up and you should know by this time that I make it a rule never to swallow canaries. My mother used to say to me. Never swallow a canary my son and you'll grow up to be a credit to the nation."

'All right, have it your own way"

Sam knew that there was nothing to be done with him in that mood. If he had something to divulge he would divulge it at his own sweet pleasure. She turned toward the stairs but Fourth stopped her.

I deem it a great honor" he said sweetly to be able to inform you at this time that my son and his estimable spouse have flown the coop. In more vulgar terms I might say they have skipped the well known gutter."

Sam was motionless for an instant. Then she turned slowly a bright spot of color in either cheek. Are you trying to tell me she inquired evenly that Nelson and Martha have gone away?"

Fourth grinned. Precisely, my dear child."

Sam walked over to where he stood and looked up at him. 'Have they gone for good?'

He continued to grin. "For good are exactly the words I should use to express the idea. I can assure you that their departure is more or less a permanent move."

Sam gulped hardly able to believe her ears. Did you have anything to do with their going?"

Fourth rocked back on his heels and made an elaborately deprecating gesture. 'My nature rebels Joan at saying anything that might sound like a boast. At the same time, honesty compels me to blush and admit that I had everything to do with their going."

Sam took a full step backward her eyes blazing. "You— She almost choked over her words. "You—"

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

A Glorious Day at the Seashore Seems Like a Second Honeymoon

THE sense of being kept in ignorance of something which the family knew steadily increased during the last meal I had at home before going upon the oceanside week end with Dick.

The two little boys were evidently tremendously excited over something and the round-eyed glances they sent me from time to time betrayed the fact that the something concerned me. Three or four times too they struck into the conversation with questions which seemed wholly irrelevant and which were quickly flagged by the older boys who seemed to be laboring under the weight of the entire world and whose frantic anxiety to keep the little boys from talking was far more potent to increase my suspicion that something was afoot, than the naive boasts of Junior and Roderick.

Carefully I pretended to pay no attention either to boasts or attempts to silence the little chaps. And as Lillian and Harry kept up a continual line of banter of each other and everybody else during the luncheon hour Dicky and I reached the time of departure without my having betrayed my suspicion that something was being kept from me.

Usually Junior is quite temperamental in his farewells to me, but this time I was almost piqued by the enthusiasm with which he and Roderick speeded our departure. It was an enthusiasm which was reflected more decorously in all the rest of the household—I was sure I did not imagine the anxiety to have us leave that appeared to be pervading the group which was bidding us godspeed.

A Close Call

We were in the car, and Dicky was just releasing the clutch, when an official voice hailed us and motioned. I saw then that Dicky turned to talk to some husky on our observation platform who promptly climbed down.

"Mr. Underwood, the steward says," the officer began, "that a special train will be here long enough to take on those passengers."

Dicky shook his head, put the car in gear, and started off. The officer looked after us in perplexity. He turned to the platform man and seemed to question him. Dicky nodded to something the platform man said and waved him. The man turned to the passengers who were waiting to board the train and seemed to be explaining. Then he turned to the officer and seemed to explain. The officer looked after us, shrugged his shoulders, and turned away.

Dicky chuckled. "Guess that will be all right," he said. "I'll explain to the steward when I get back to the train."

"Why should you?" I asked. "Why should you be responsible for the delay?"

"Because I'm the cause for it," he said. "Ask him anything you want to know."

As he spoke I saw Harry Underwood put his hand ingratiatingly upon Sam Tyler's arm and lead him away still protesting but safe I knew in Mr. Underwood's capable hands.

Safe from what? The query formed in my brain although I was sure that I had no cause for anything but amusement at the conspiracy to keep me from finding out something which evidently was shared not only by my family but by the neighbors as well. But I was firmly determined not to betray the slightest curiosity. That it was some sort of a surprise which was being planned for me was plain. I had noticed the same suppressed excitement when I came home from the hospital before they had shown me the Egyptian lily pool which Dicky had had constructed as a surprise for me.

Some addition to my beloved flower garden probably I thought comfortable and dismissing the whole thing from my mind gave myself up to the rest and pleasure of the outing which Dicky had planned for me.

There followed the most marvelous three days I had known since my honeymoon. The hotel was quiet, well appointed, and its cuisine justified its advertising. Dicky and I motored, rode horseback, and swam enough to afford us the outdoor exercise to which we are always accustomed. But mostly we rested gloriously, sheltered out in the shelter of the sand dunes, reading and talking.

A Second Honeymoon

There never was a more loyal lover than Dicky. And during those three days a jealous world and more jealous wife, fashionable attention, were nearly forgotten, then we [illegible] came to me.

But for years had I had such a sense of rest and relaxation. My nerves were lulled, my mind soothed by the sublime monotony of sea and sunny sand. Many unnamed things for the body and mind which I had not even known I craved were given me. [illegible] I returned [illegible]

The Stars Say—

For Thursday Sept. 17

AN interesting enterprising and profitable day may be looked for according to the auguries of important planetary signs. The energies will be well stimulated and aggressive tending toward large ventures and speculative propositions and those should thrive providing there is precaution in signing papers and with regard to fraud and publicity. Also be careful with strangers.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a progressive lively and successful year with some advancement or recognition from those in high places. But be careful with strangers sign all writings cautiously and be on guard against duplicity or fraud. There may be some curious entanglements otherwise. A child born on this day should be entertaining aggressive and ambitious and should attain to good position but it may be inclined to crafty or peculiar methods unless given an ideal of probity and principle.

being called for a long distance telephone message. But always I had the feeling that a grown up was at the elbow of each boy. Once Indeed Junior after answering my inquiries as to himself and Faith, gurgled excitedly.

Oh Mama you ought to see but whatever he said was cut short abruptly by something—I guessed a hand put suddenly over his mouth for a few seconds later he asked in the subdued tone of one who has been coached in a question.

When are you coming home?

Then excitement trampling over caution he exclaimed.

Gee Mama if you don't come pretty soon me and Rod are going to bust.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

WHEN I woke up this morning I was thinking about Younis and wondering what she thinks I am. I can't help a girl kissing me when she comes up behind me and grabs me when I am eating. She ought to know that.

I let Jubilee down to his rope and put on my thick short britches and went down and got the pail and went out to milk the cows and the bunch come and we talked all about school and how funny it is that girls like to go to school and then when I went in and strained the milk and Younis and Maggie and Pebble came I was glad. Because I was afraid Younis wasn't coming. I thought I would make it all right with Younis so I said to Beeble 'You ought to be ashamed to kiss me the way you did.' Beeble said 'I ain't got no shame. I kissed a pig once.' Then Younis said 'You kissed him twice.' Then everybody laughed and I could feel myself get red but I could see Younis felt better.

People always feel better when they say something funny and make people laugh. Then my father said it would be time to put the stove up soon and my grandfather said he had been thinking that the chimney must be full of soot and that he had thought of a good skeem to clean it. My father asked him what it was and he said to wait and he would show him. So he got up on a chair and took the tin stopper out of the chimney and then he got the electric fan and connected it up and said I will just blow it up the chimney and out over the roof. Then he took hold of the fan and climb up on the chair and my aunt didn't believe he could do it and she got up and went and stood under the chimney hole looking up and hoping it wouldn't work and she got her hope.

My grandfather turned on the fan and when it got going good he put it right up close to the stovepipe hole and when the air blew in the hole about a bushel of soot blew out and my aunt got almost all of it but my grandfather only got a little on his nose and one side of his face. When my aunt turned around she looked like a colored woman and a mad one. She said 'You pie headed old fool' and gave my grandfather a shove that made him fall off the chair and I think the fan got some of his whiskers but it all happened so sudden that I couldn't be sure.

We were all afraid my grandfather was hurt but he wasn't. He sat on the floor looking surprised and hanging onto the fan for a minute and then he certainly did say things. The room was full of soot, breakfast table and all and my mother told me out to go to the pasture because she didn't want me to hear what my grandfather was saying.

The girls didn't go to the pasture with us because they had to go home and wash and change. That was a good skeem of my grandfather's I wonder why it didn't work.
